

G. F. TRAIN ONCE MORE.
On Tuesday, 23rd June, Mr. George Francis Train was ought a salutary lesson, when, instead of being set at free as he expected, his examination was adjourned to the 27th, and he was sent back to the Marshalsea, to remain there until he "gives the information required of him."
The case of Miller, in giving his decision, went over the entirety of the case. In April, 1861, the Ebbw Vale Iron ent evening Commodore Lambert, the commanding officer of H.M.S. Briar contributed largely to the enjoyment of the night. The ladies did their parts bravely, and, were it not indispensable to mention name, I could religiously give individual praise to all. The evening was a most agreeable one. In making this short notice of these agreeable evenings (one that should be more particularised), I ought to mention the secretary will be glad to receive books and papers, and addresses of Levens, Wales, Fiji." will be highly prized.

The Tongan flag that has been flying for some years on some of the Fijian Islands to the eastward has been handed over to the British flag by the British Consul, the British chief, having been appointed successor to the vana of the Friendly Islands. The only flag, therefore, waving over Fiji is the one pur of simple of King Tomanua. These islands are the only islands in the world with a professional geologist—(Mr. Garrett)—who has spent many months of active and intelligent inquiry, and has succeeded in finding endless new varieties of sea and land shells; and he has discovered a new species of the Tridacna, the Tridacna antonian Beetle-odon; it measures three inches, and is considered a special treasure. A second has been found for the Count Castelnau, of Melbourne, a brother-worker in the same field. The islands are also the only islands in the world the finest specimens in the world; and his patient perseverance has been rewarded by his being acknowledged the most approved judge in all matters connected with the islands.

A graceful act for services rendered was paid the Rev. J. F. Horeau a day or two since. This gentleman has been a missionary in the group for the last eight years, and has been a most successful one. He has been a most successful one, where he has been stationed zealously and as a good missionary. For the past two years he has been stationed at Levens, and, in addition to preaching to the natives, has been a most successful one. He has been a most successful one, a beneficial manner to those who had the pleasure of sitting under him. The health of Mr. Horeau declining, it was imperative a voyage to a colder climate should be made. He was a most successful one, and he was a most successful one. It was arranged that they should, with their family, embark in her. To mark the innumerable acts of kindness the Levens residents have received at the hands of the Rev. J. F. Horeau, a special notice of his services was presented him, an address of a very complimentary nature was signed by nearly all the white inhabitants of

Mr. Horely's health and the speedy return of their beloved wife, who had been ill for some time, were the chief motives which led Mr. Horely to leave New Zealand, from Kaituma.

H.M.S. Challenger, Commodore Lambert, left Ovalau on the 26th for the Rewa, when she would send an expedition to the interior, to ascertain the extent of the country which had been "sauced." Of course, on the approach of the boats, the natives would disappear, so that no loss of life was to be feared. The Challenger was to be followed by the cutter for the New Hebrides Group, and thence to Sydney. Mr. Acting-Consul Thurston embarked in the Challenger, but would probably not go farther than the flows; he would, however, visit the country seat, fifteen miles from his consulate, on Ovalau.

A change has been made in the conduct of United States Affairs in this country. Mr. Brown, who has been Acting Vice-Consul for several years, has been elected in the capacity of Vice-Consul for Fiji.

The church was in high feather while the ships of war were in the harbor, and the consuls circulate without running plump against a chaplain or reverend. Extra services were held, and the pretty little church was filled to overflowing. When the ships were gone, the church was empty.

Many arrivals have taken place lately, bringing passengers. The Albion (a) landed 47; John Waver, 17; Benbow, New Zealand, 27; Magellan Cloud, 12; Lapland, 12; and the ship of the Government, 12. Mr. Benbow, Mr. Christmas, New Zealand, supposed 12; but I am left without time to ascertain the last named and sundry others.

Where English men and English women are flocking—where British influence is felt—where all our sympathies are aroused, and where we are paid high wages,—a time must come when these men and women will be tired of being wanted, and when they will want to be wanted. They will be wanting in preserving order and extending a helping hand to the hundreds of settlers claiming to be British. This is the only way in which they can be of any use.

decreased importance of the group will, I doubt not, lead to a reconsideration of the whole question of amputation. Should you happily see the case, then would you be good enough to give Jill another name; one that you propose itself to my mind, and as Jill has recently had a visit from one of Her Majesty's sons, out of the kindness of which she is now to be sent to the young Prince, I would suggest Alfred Land or Alfreda as a future name for old Jill—whether the British flag waves from the mast of the vessel, or whether it is the Union Jack acquired in by the King and the chiefs of those islands.

There is some talk of establishing a weekly paper, to be called the Wellington Herald, to be published in New Zealand, and a party to put both in operation. This can not be long deferred. A fair circulation can be calculated upon, and the paper will be a welcome addition to the colony.

The John Wesley, in addition to her shipment of coconuts oil, is taking a quantity of beche-de-mer.

EARTHQUAKE AND TIDAL DISTURBANCES AT WELLINGTON AND NAPIER.

(From the Wellington Independent.)

On Saturday, August 15th, most unusual phenomena took place in this harbour, and also in other parts of the colony, as we learn by telegraphic despatches which were received from the various ports. The water rose to such a place that day, and which created not only astonishment, but in some cases dread that a great disaster was about to ensue. On one occasion the water crept up the walls, the tide rises without the influence of the moon, with the greatest regularity, to a height which can be previously ascertained with the utmost exactness. There are two kind of waves, the one is called the Waka, and is produced by the water rising when the water does not move onward, and has

[illegible][illegible]

fore eighteen inches in the hour. At Talera the tidal wave entered the river and destroyed the piers. The wave was also felt at Osmare. Monday, 7.80 p.m. At Otogo Heads on Saturday a tidal wave rose five feet, and swept on to the shore. The vessels anchored there were tossed about. Within two minutes the sea fell, and the tide about the same. At Osmare there was a tremendous surf. The highest wave rose eleven feet, dashed on the shore, and came over the landing place. The wave receded rapidly, and the surf here was somewhat as the sea went back. At Teerri there was a great sea, and at the fall of the tide, the punt being washed away. A slight shock of earthquake has been felt to-day in Dundee. It

One of our daily papers celebrated for its "large circulation" has been getting up a controversy on the relative merits of railway and marriage. The Full Mail Gazette, possess evidences of having been manufactured for the occasion. The case is fairly put on both sides, but the discussion is not likely to be of much use, as the Mail is not the organ of a general's returns. Nor was it so intended. It was merely a bit of sensationalism, as if we had not enough of it in politics. Surely the row between the Hon. Mr. Chubb and the Hon. Mr. Bland, but a tame affair. Had the Guildhall meeting occurred in Australia, how virtuously indignant our newspapers would have been over the matter. Fancy the Mail being so much concerned about a thoroughly tremendous personage—is irreverentially "down" up" by a blow in his stomach; as which aldermen, bankers, citizens, merchants, and even the mighty Mail itself, are all regarded as a good night in the background an immense mass of moral reformers, evill-lookng, unwashed, uncombed, greasy, and ragged—yell, shout, and dance, with a vigorous and unrelenting spirit, against the poor little heavy forms of Gunga and Moggy—two representatives of civil dignity. Why it beats the glories of Donnybrook hollow. But is this the way to settle international questions?—forebears hand the advantage here. Many a time as they were in many things, they certainly learned how to conduct themselves on such occasions with becoming dignity. But what can we expect when the Hon. Mr. Gordon is so much concerned to himself by mimicking a Spurgeon or mocking his Roman Catholic brethren, who, whether they creed or not, are mistaken one or not, are quite as sincere as we are?—The Mail is not the only paper that—by its contrast—shines the speech of Dean Alford at the opening of Chesant College. In the language of the Dean on that occasion was revealed the true character of the Mail. The article on the same conviction is hourly growing stronger, that its own disestablishment will be found its true power. The petition of the Protestant clergymen to the Government is a very good thing, and there is also a sign of the times. The floodgates of reform have been opened, and there is no knowing where we shall stop. But the cause of religion is not in danger. The Mail is not the organ of a general's returns. The Church will sing itself on the broad and unalloyed

a maximum of good effected at a minimum of exp
Such popular education, which embraces indu sympathy of the masses, and will rise far more grand-and powerful, and more glorious than ever. It will be the power of the living Christ, the living solid instrument—a mere means of providing young men with a livelihood. It will find that something more than a University education is required of preachers.

 It will propose that to be useful as well as ornamental.
 It will be able to comprehend the true meaning of teaching as defined by the Rev. T. W. Fowle, one of our most thoughtful clergymen, when he says, vergely, that—Men must be approached, not with the pomp of a king, nor with the mystery of a and mysterious subject, but with (it is difficult to find suitable word) an idea, in which hope predominates
 and fear mingles, the fear of sinfulness working out into the fear of God, and the fear of God working out into the fear of sinfulness. If this work to be continued, a life to be lived out, a character to be developed, it may be a new chance to be allowed us, under such conditions as shall be prescribed by the justice of God. Just as we must have too much to do with meeting
 the form is retained, but the spirit has disappeared.
 Religion has become genteel—a matter of kid gloves and velvet prayer-books. As Mr. Fowle calls this the "genteel religion," it is not surprising that we must take higher ground. As Mr. Fowle truly says,
 "We must proclaim that Christ is Head and King not merely of the Church, but of the world; that He is the center of religion in scientific as in religious progress, in civilization as in religion; that the sense of which a timid religiosity never dreamt, the kingdoms of this world are become the kingdoms of God and of His Christ. We must insist upon the fact that the Church is the trustee of the Kingdom of God to the King of men. We must hallow the occasion of manual labour, just as the professions of mechanics or justice are hallowed by a thousand Christian uses. We must find the adequate for mechanical work, and so the same intimate connection between that has ever bound together religion and the calling of the shepherd or the farmer; and we must see in the factory, no less than in the vineyard or the field, the presence of the living Christ, the living between God and man. And we must look forward to a however remote a future, to a state of things in which it shall not seem unnatural or absurd, to think of the world as having been created America, or of the world as having been built Europe."
 Here is the solution of the great problem how to bring together religion and the masses. How grand and magnificent, seems this true and touching language, uttered by a man who has been in the the querous and winning complaints of certain

FURTHER PARTICULARS OF THE ESCAPE OF THE CHATHAM ISLAND MARINE.

THE GUARD KILLED—THE PRISONER STORMED—THE CUSTOM-HOUSE PLUNDERED.

Wellington, Tuesday, August 11th.

The Stormbird, which was sent to the Chatham Islands to learn particulars of the escape of the prisoners, arrived at Wellington 24 weeks on Monday morning, August 10th, and has the following account of the voyage.

The Wellington Independent has the following account, as derived from the report of the officers of the Stormbird—

"On the arrival at the Chatham Islands, it was discovered that the escape of the prisoners had taken place. It was found that the escape formerly published, and said to have been furnished by the fugitives, was incorrect in many particulars.

"One man of the guard, named Harsett, notified the prisoners of the escape, and was taken captive. He was immediately tomahawked and killed.

"The prisoners still remain. They were aware of the escape, and informed the guard of the intended surprise.

"Three Indians of some unusual stature, who appear not to have been taken advantage of.

"These three prisoners had to secret themselves until the departure of the countryman.

"On the afternoon of the 4th of July the prisoners attacked the redoubt, secured the guard, and killed one of them. They then ransacked the Custom-house, taking from it a portion of the money belonging to the Government, and the remainder to the inhabitants, having been deposited in the Custom-house.

"The prisoners then took 4000 rounds of ammunition, and from twenty to thirty stand of arms.

"They seized Captain Thomas, the gentleman who was in the charge of the island, and marched him handcuffed from the redoubt to the Custom-house, where he was kept. He would not hurt him if he would show them where the money was.

"After the departure of the Rifleman with the Mavel's prisoners, an attempt was made to take the Chatham Store, for the purpose of proceeding to Wellington. The attempt was unsuccessful. A native who was assisting became alarmed, and fled to the Custom-house, and was shot and drowned. The Florence now lies on the beach, and was captured. She has been purchased by Mr. Ritchie, of Christchurch, for £60.

A MESSENGER SHOT BY THE REBELS, AND THE DESPATCHES READ.

A correspondent of the Hawke's Bay Herald of the 11th inst., writes from Auckland, New Zealand, that Whitmore had been his party have crossed the river in pursuit of the rebels. He is reported as being visible at Puketamora, in a charge of the Hukituri river. The graves of six of the rebels were found—three of those who had fled, action was taken by Westrup (amongst them "Nikora," of Tarawa), and three killed by Richardson's party. The messenger was shot by the rebels; he was taken prisoner, and his body has since been buried near the place where he fell. He was a half-caste, named Papa. This accounts for the non-communication which so puzzled us all. It was found that the messenger had written down the number code could both read and write in English. The rebels must have crossed the Hangaroa with expedition, and they must have found some good hiding places for their clothing, a bride, and a few other things, and a large number of horses. A knowledge of or a peep at the contents of the despatches may have hastened their movements.

THE M'ALPIN COPPER MINE.—The Tribune correspondent of the Gundagai Times writes:—The owners of the M'Alpin Copper Mine have sunk their shaft to a greater depth of some 1,000 feet, and have obtained a fine specimen of very rich material, viz., black oxide of copper, in profusion. The lode runs to the east direction, north and south, and the shaft will be in a good position, and the mine is so situated as to be accessible to four feet in width. The parties concerned in this venture feel very confident that this mine will ultimately prove one of the richest in this colony, and of course we all sympathize with the hope they may not be deceived in their expectations.

AT A FITZPATRICK CAMP.—On Monday last (says the Wagga Wagga Advertiser of Saturday) five young children, the illegitimate offspring of a native and a white woman, were taken to the Police Court for protection. The miserable little creatures, dirty, half-starved, half-clothed, and wholly defenceless, were brought before the court, looking more like the offspring of the devil than of man. The children were taken from the arms of their mother by the children of the same mother, who were under a sentence of five years' imprisonment for cattle stealing, and their mother was an adherent of the same.

Others are also in custody, though they have yet been committed, on a charge of stealing blankets from the dray of a hawker. In the

and in custody, though they have yet been committed to the cooling blankets from the dryness of a hawker. In the morning, the two boys were left at their miserable habitation with no other but a younger brother (at some thirteen or fourteen years of age to provide for them, and when the police came to look-up for protection for the purpose of taking them to the place. When the father was surprised by the police in the act of skinning the beast, for stealing which he is now undergoing his sentence, it will be remembered that his child, then occupying he was being assisted by his eldest brother, who was also a hawker, was already sitting down, reading, and for the time, making good his claim from the police upon their endeavouring to capture him, and while this struggle was going on, or immediately afterwards, it will perhaps also be remembered, that the brand which the

The assortment of Fort Phillip wool was a fair average in regard to quality and quantity, and included the usual proportion of very fine fleeces, which sold throughout the season at high prices. On ordinary to superior fleeces, both washed and in the grease, an advance of fully 10 per lb. was paid at one time, but, as stated above, this advance was paid at one subsequently lost. Some parcels of superior quality sold well, but faulty lots were neglected.

The arrivals from New South Wales and Queensland were limited, but the demand was limited also, and but little advance was paid for the better quality fleeces of the season. The best brands were well collected, for they brought the highest prices.

The few thousand bales of Tasmanian wool placed on the market sympathised very closely with the Port Phillips in regard to price. The produce of Tasmania, in respect of quantity, was not far behind that of New South Wales, and of Australia as a whole. New Zealand, but the admirably fine quality and majority of the superior brands confer an importance on the importation from this colony which it would not otherwise possess.

The terrible storm, and the inundations which broke over the provinces of Otago and Canterbury, on the 2nd February, so greatly disturbed the ordinary shipping arrangements that the quantity of New Zealand wool arrived in time for the May series was much smaller than usual, and to this circumstance must be ascribed its comparatively high range of value, prices for both

The pretense of several large German buyers at the commencement of the series was marked off upon the value of August quarters, together with an active demand from other buyers, specially created an advance of 5 to 10 id per lb. Subsequently, however, the market was again depressed, and the price showed no improvement on March rates. The assessment from the Western districts was very inferior, both in quality and quantity, and the market was consequently depressed. The latter, however, were decidedly better during the earlier portion of the series, and the quality of the bulk of the goods was generally very dry, as, even, were remembered that these wools were either portioned up in March or early in April.

Wool of all kinds has been entirely unquoted, and sold at very low prices.

There has been about that one-half of the entire quantity offered has been taken for foreign export.

With regard to the future, much, no doubt, will depend upon the result of the forthcoming auction, which is expected to be a quantity for the August series, and if the experience of former years is any guide, it is probable that the bulk of the goods at the disposal of the same will depend, to a great extent, on the competition of the home trade.

THE FURRY SHIP.—If the Controller will give the Turret a fair trial himself, he cannot prevent the event being a success. The vessel is a fine one, and has been freed from coming continually under his nose. On Saturday last, remarks the United Service Gazette, a turner's ship, with full forebreast, on the plan of Captain Luard, R.N., built by Messrs. Laird for the Dutch Government, and now in the service of the Dutch East India Company. Length, 180 feet; beam, 44 feet; depth, 11 feet 6 inches; armour-plated with 5½-inch plates from feet below the water line to gunwale, reduced at extreme ends to 4½ inches, resting on oak 10 inches thick, and 12 inches deep, and 12 inches apart, secured by longitudinal iron girders; the turret protected by plates 8 inches thick, increased to 11 inches at the ports, carrying two 300 pound 12½-ton rifled guns, which can be fired in line of keel forward and within 45 degrees of the beam. The vessel worked by steam. Her draught (two engines) is 140-horse power. She was after the trial taken out of the river into the open sea, where a considerable swell was running at the time, and was found to be remarkably steady and free from rolling, and her turret worked admirably. Although every experiment proves the enormous superiority of turret ships as fighting vessels, the Controller still persists in constructing nothing but broadside vessels, which have already proved to be a failure.

FAREWELL DEMONSTRATION TO GRACE EGERTON.

Upon her finally leaving Melbourne this favorite article received a complimentary and farewell demonstration.
The Princess Theatre was secured for the 24th of this past month, and a performance was given at which all the available dramatic and musical talent in Melbourne volunteered their assistance, and the following distinguished gentlemen, with their families, accorded their patronage
and presence:

Major-General Sir Trevor Chute, K.C.B.
Colonel Trevor, C.B. His Honor Sir Redmond
The Officers of the 14th Regiment (who kindly granted the services of their band for the occasion).
Colonel Smith, R.A.
The Officers of the Royal Artillery.

The Mayor of Melbourne.
The Mayor of St. Kilda.
The Mayor of Port Phillip.
The Mayor of Fitzroy.
And most of the leading families in Melbourne.
On this occasion, Grace Egerton appeared for the first time in two dramatic works.

The performance was a great success, it being attended by 1500 persons.

Many professional and private Sydney friends trust that as Mr. and Mrs. George Case are about leaving for India and China, that the same substantial recognition of their services and talents may be accorded them in this city.

Mr. Dind has in the most handsome manner placed the PRINCE OF WALES THEATRE
at their disposal for FRIDAY next, August 28.

Artists are invited to assist, and it is hoped that the leading inhabitants will grant the same name and influence as last time. Communications to be addressed to
